PROFESSIONAL SUMMARY

Sam is a relatively new addition to the West Coast Forensics team. With a background in Fine Art, woodworking, and construction, he quickly grew interested in drafting and architecture. After graduating from Lewis and Clark College in 2009, he went on to hone his skills in woodworking through various fabrication/design companies throughout Portland. Multiple fabrication jobs and various AutoCAD classes later, he decided to pursue his interest in drafting here at West Coast Forensics.

As a drafter working under the direction of an architect or engineer, Sam creates, edits, and plots architectural and structural renderings primarily using AutoCAD. Through his work, Sam exhibits exceptional organizational skills, an attention to detail, and the ability to meet deadlines.

Though he is a recent addition to West Coast Forensics, Sam has completed architectural and structural drawings for a three story commercial building, a new single family two story residence, an accessory workshop, numerous retrofitted buildings, and much more. As he progresses here at West Coast Forensics, his efficiency, knowledge, and expertise in his field will continue to grow.
